* If an employer is considered as an Applicable Large Employer (ALE) (total of 50 or more FTE employees), the employer will need to offer dependent children coverage to their employees in order to avoid the Employer Shared Responsibility (ESR) penalties. Please refer to Section 4980H of the Internal Revenue Code.

What is a full-time equivalent employee?

For the purposes of determining whether an employer is a small or large employer as defined by the Affordable Care Act (ACA) and applicable California law, the employer is required to calculate its total number of "Full-Time Equivalent" (FTE) employees. This number determines whether the employer is eligible to participate in Covered California for Small Business. The FTE number is also important for determining whether an employer is an Applicable Large Employer (ALE) and subject to the Employer Shared Responsibility Provisions (ESRP) under Section 4980H of the Internal Revenue Code.

An FTE employee is not an actual employee but a calculation involving all part-time and full-time employees who worked during the preceding calendar year. See Health and Safety Code Section 1357.500(k)(3) and Insurance Code Section 10965.3(q)(3) for further information. If the employer did not exist in the prior calendar year or calendar quarter, the employer shall determine the average number of employees who are reasonably expected to work on business days in the current calendar year. That figure will establish whether the employer is eligible for coverage through Covered California for Small Business.

For purposes of determining whether an employer is an Applicable Large Employer that is subject to the ESRP, the calculation only involves the employment figures from the prior calendar year. See Section 4980H of the Internal Revenue Code and the IRS website for more details.

Instructions

1. Information on how to perform the FTE calculation can be found using the Employer Shared Responsibility Provision (ESRP) Estimator: http://taxpayeradvocate.irs.gov/estimator/esrp/
2. Use the final FTE figures as the number you use to fill in Step 2, question 7 of this application.

Important to Know:

- If your FTE number is at least 50, you are required to offer coverage to all dependent children up to the age of 26. See Section 4980H of the Internal Revenue Code.
- Calculating the total FTE number is your responsibility as an employer.
- Covered California cannot provide assistance with the FTE calculation. Please consult with a Certified Insurance Agent or visit the IRS website for assistance.
